Rentokil Ant Control Service

Effective Garden Ant control from 'The Experts'

This bespoke service is aimed at homeowners and businesses that have a problem with Garden Ants, whether you have an infestation inside your premises or around the perimeter of your building.

Garden Ants are the most common type of ant species in the UK. They nest in a variety of locations, including within buildings and around building perimeters, including inside wall voids, under flagstones and in soil. The correct solution for their effective control will depend on the type and extent of infestation.

Rentokil offer a number of control methods which have been designed to combat Garden Ants in a variety of situations.

Benefits to you and your business

- Effective: We use the most effective method to control your specific ant problem.
- Peace of Mind: Reduce the risk of food contamination and disruption as a consequence of ant infestations.
- Save money and time, dealing with nuisance, and sometimes costly, infestations.

How it works

We use a variety of methods to control Garden Ant infestations including:

Targeted spray treatments: We target the nest, to kill the Queen, which results in collapse of the nest.

Baiting: If the infestation is persistent, or if the the nest isn't readily accessible, then we use bait stations containing an effective ant bait. The ants take the insecticide bait back to their nest resulting in control.

Drill and dust: If the nest is located within a wall cavity, then we offer a drill and dust service which takes the insecticide directly to the nest. After the treatment is complete we plug the holes, which if required can be re-opened to treat the following year.
